The Danger of Leving a King's Concubine-Terrible Revenge of an East Indian Frince.

The people of Western India have been horrified during the last few days by one of the most awful tragedies which ever occurred in this or any part of the world; and the act has been rendered all the more odious by the author of it being an Indian Prince, who is not amenable to any law but his own, and whose motive can be attributed to nothing but insatiable revenge. The scene of the awful occurrence is the populous city of Baroda, the capital of that extensive portion of Western India which is laid down in some maps as the "Guicowar, one of his own nobility, a Mohammedan, of great wealth and vast influence, East Indian Prince.

other, and when he arrives there life is usually extinct.

Should this not be the case, however, the elephant is backed upon the prostrate body, and, when once it puts its ponderous feet upon it, it crushes out of it the last vestige of life. Sometimes, it is true, the vietim's head is dashed against a stone and his brains are knocked out; but generally the whole diabolical proceeding is carried to its utmost extent. On the occasion I speak of, the Mahomedan soon perished; so that the last strocity was randered unnecessary. Ho had put his rival to death. The royal isensulaist's vengence, however, was not satisfied. He ordered the poor dancing girl to have her nose and one of her breasts cut off as some punishment on her conduct, but whether the sentence has been carried into effect has not yet transpired. The Guicowar's barbarous conduct has excited the greatest indignation among the Anglo Saxon population here, and an opinion is very generally entertained that as such a monster is not fit to rule his dominions the British government should step in and depose him and govern them in a proper manner.

If the man during the year makes $20,000 by a judicious investment of his remaining $30,000, he must give the lithing office $4,000 of the amount. This is the second grand principle of Utah Mormonism; and upon these two principles hang all the law and the profits. If a man has no money or other property, he is required to give one-tenth of his labor to the tithing office; thus he labors nine days for himself, and the tenth he gives to the church in such manner as he may be directed.

In this monner the church claims one-tenth of every laboring man's time—one-tenth of every laboring man's time—one-tenth of every trade represented in the territory—one-tenth of a man's life, talent and industry. If a man engages in farming and raises wheat, cattle, horses, sheep, etc., he must calculate what he has raised, say one hundred bushels of wheat at twenty days' labor—the tithing office demands ten bushels of that grain. Should he be title thirty days, the tithing office claims three days from him on the ground that he may do as he pleases with twenty-seven days, but has no right to idle away three days belonging to the Lord. If he has one hundred sheep he must give one-tenth of them; he mast give one-tenth of the facterses. If he has a cow, and the cow

We assert, with a full knowledge of what we are writing, that at no time since the Mormon advent into Utah, has any public sentiment of the condition of the fund been made to the people.

The Mormon leaders are inclined to exag-gerate their numbers, and set down the popu-lation of Salt Lake City as 25,000, and that of the whole Territory as 125,000; but the Gen-tiles, pointing at the census of 1860, which gave but 40,290 in all Utah, say there can not be over 75,000 now in the entire Territory. so far as the charge against Mr. McGee is concerned:

Speaking of the State trials at present going on, he taid that some of his countrymen were found the tone of his countrymen were found the tone of his countrymen were found that sentence more than he did; that actually his blood ran cold in his veins on hearing that the blood of his countrymen was to be poured out on a Canadian scaffold. He also stated that he had documents upon documents in his possession to prove that there were among us men who deserved to be in company with those men already doomed, but he kept it secret, and stood between them and the justice of the law; and wound up by saying he should not have spoken thus.

These are strong expressious to be used by a Canadian Minister, and take what view we may, unless the matter can be cleared and a difference were the secret and secret the secret than the secret than the secret that secret t a Canadian Minister, and take what view we may, unless the matter can be cleared and a different meaning drawn from those words than they now convey, Mr. McGee places himself in a very strange position indeed. Constitution.

The Journal misstates our position when it says, "the HERALD backs down from its statepayable six months after the ratification of a treaty of peace between that government and the United States. The Journal insisted that only the confederate notes were made subject to that condition. We yet think that the bonds were made payable when a treaty of peace and been concluded between the two Governments—for the Journal recognizes the confederate States as a Government. If it be did not wish to develop the military reputathe case that there is such a condition in the bonds, it makes the argument still stronger against the necessity of an amendment to the Constitution repudiating the confederate debt. The experience of the last five years demonstrates, most conclusively, that constitutiona guarantees amount to but little-that they are no barpier, in fact, when partisan aggrandizement is to be advanced by disregarding them. The doctrine was, and is even now advocated by the Jacobin leaders, that the objects they itations in the organic law of the land. Beunder their feet, and pronounced it "a league with hell and a covenant with death." And it will not be forgotten that it was only a few the American flag as "a flaunting lie." The men and the party who thus regard the Constitution would not be influenced by provisions reputating the control interests were subserved thereby. Having made the Constitution a convenience in accomplishing the ends they had in view, it is not at all probable they will have any more respect for it in the future. To this class the Journal's remarks may apply in its reference to venal Congressmen, "whose virtue," it says, "would be a poor defense against the offer of a million of dollars—a sum that the creditors of the defunct confederacy could well federate debt, unless their interests were subserved thereby. Having made offer of a million of dollars—a sum that the creditors of the defunct confederacy could well of a bill to pay their claims from the United States Treasury." Is it at all probable that any apology can be found for assuming the confederate debt, which would justify even a venal Congressman in voting for it? All of the States which composed the confederacy have repudiated that indebtedness in their reorganized constitutions. And that existing the second section he says:

The practical effect of this section upon the States would be a loss of nearly half the representatives to which they are now end from the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end from the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end for the representatives to which they are now end for the represe reorganized constitutions. Is there not as much danger of the bondholders raising a corruption fund to carry such a measure position, and without any apparent cause for confederate bondholders will attempt to influence Congress through the same agencies? Instead of recognizing the rebel debt, our Government is now demanding redress from the British Government for the damage done to our commerce by the vessels sailing under the confederate flag, which were built and fitted out in English ports. If there was any obligation on the part of the United States to assume and cancel the bonds or obligations of the Richmond government, Great Britain would insist upon offsetting eur claim for the losses occasioned by the Alabama and other rebel cruisers, with the confederate bonds held by her subjects.

He sums up his objections thus:

"For reasons such as these I am decidedly of the opinion that this amendment should not be ratified. The first section embodies a principle which I regard as dangerous to the Massachusetts as to Alabama. The second section proposes a change in a feature of our Government which has never been complained of before. Patented May 29, 1866

Tills is an article for washing without rubbing, accept in very dirty places, which will require a very slight rub, and unlike other preparations offered for a like purpose, will not rot that ordinary methods, without the usual wear and tearning will not be usual wear and tearning will not be usual wear and soften to the grease spots as if by magic, and soften the usual wear and soften the usual wear and tearning will in ordinary cases entirely removed in accordance with chemical science, and upon a process peculiar to disaff, which is secured by Letters Patent. It has been in use for more than a year, and has proved itself an universal favorite wherever it has been used. Among the advantages claimed are the following, viz:

It saves all the expense of soap usually used on cotton and all linen goods.

It saves most of the labor of rubbing, and wear and tear.

Also, for cleaning windows it is unsurpassed with one quarter of the time and labor usually required it imparts a beautiful gloss and lustre, much superior to any other mode. No water required except to moisten the powder.

In rections with each package.

The cost of washing for a contact of five or six persons will not exceed three cents.

The manufacturers of this powder are aware that many useless compounds have been introduced to the public which have rotted the cloth, or failed in removing the dirt, but knowing the intrinsic excellence of this article, they confidently proclaim it as being adapted to meet a demand which has long existed, and which has heretofore remained unsupplied.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, December 8. Prominent Fenians have petitioned the Government in behalf of Colonel Meany, who was arrested in England. A reply was made that measures have been taken which will doubtless secure his release.

At the meeting of the Southern loyalists, last night, there was an animated discussion

At the meeting of the Southern loyalists, last night, there was an animated discussion on the subject of reconstruction, the territorial plan meeting, with much favor. A bill of this basis will soon be submitted to Congress, which would fail to do its day if it hesitated to declare the existing State governments in the South nullities.

Among other propositions submitted was one providing that Congress shall appoint a commission to prepare a constitution for each of the Southern States, which after approval by Congress, should be submitted to the States.

The presidents of the various railroad line from Washington to Nortons, Lynchburgs Chattanoga and Grand Junction, met in this, city and perfected a schedule which shortens the line from New York to New Orleans ninety-two miles. The great Southern mail will be ordered upon the line at onec. The new schedule commences Sunday night. After 1st of January there will be two trains adjuve the lines.

It is considered certain that the President will yeto the bill creating a department of internal rayous, if it should be passed.

The bill abrogating the Southern State governments, if passed, will be surely vetoed. The bill authorizing a public sale by the Treasury Department, of two millions of gold, every Monday, in New York will be adopted by the committee in one or both Houses. Sales are to have prominent notice in one newspare in each of the twelve principal cities; the proceeds therefrom to be lavested in interior step in each of the United States. MARK MERIDEN. BY MRS. H. B. STOWE.

"Come, Mark Meriden, don't settle down into an old grandfather before your time—a pretty wife's a pretty thing, Mark, and a pretty house is a pretty thing—but hang it!—one must have a little of life."

Mark Meriden stood at his desk, giving a last look at his books, while Ben. Sanford—the roguish—the mery, the song significant.

about Ben. Sanford, and all bachelor friends and allurements whatsoever, and thought himself the happiest tellow en earth.

The evening passed off rapidly by the help of music, reading, and a little small talk, of which married people generally find a supply, and next morning saw Mark, at early business hours, with as steady a hand and cool a head as if there had been no such thing as bachelor frolics in existence.

Late in the afternoon, Ben. Sanford lounged in to ogle a few of the ladies, and, above all, to rally Mark on losing the glorious fun of the night before.

to rally Mark on losing the glorious fun of the night before.

"Upon my word, Mark." he began, "we must have you put up for Selectman, you are becoming so extremely ancient and venerable in your ways—however, you are to be excused," he added, "circumstances considered—female influence! ha!—well, it's a fine affair, this marriage!"

"Better try it, Mr. Sanford," said a bright saucy girl, who, with her laughing companions, was standing by while Ben. was speaking.

"Ah, madame! the wherewithal!" said "Ah, madame! the wherewithal!" said Ben., roliting up his eyes with a tragic expression. "If some clever old fellow would be so obliging as to die now, and leave me a few thousands—then, ladies, you would see."

"But speaking of money," said Mark, when he saw the ladies busy over some laces he had just thrown on the counter, "what did your "glorious fun" cost you?"

"Phooh!—nothing!—only a ten dollar bill—nothing in my purse, you know!"

"Nothing in your purse?"—not an uncommon incident after these occasions," said Mark laughing.

"Oh, hang it all!" said Ben., "too true! I purse, as old Flagstaff says; however, the world owes me a living and so good morning."

Ben. Sanford was just one of that class of young men of whom common report goes, that they can do anything they please, and who consider this point as so well established, that they do not think it necessary to illustrate it by doing anything at all. He was a lawyer of talent, and would have had an extensive run of business had he not been one of the class of people never to be found when wanted. His law books and law office saw far less of him than certain fashionable places of resort, where his handsome person and various social accomplishments always secured to him a welcome reception. Ben. had some little property left him by his father, just enough, as he used laughingly to quote, to "keep him in gloves and cologne water," and for the rest he seemed vastly contented with his old maxim, "the world owes me a living," forgetting that the world can sometimes prove as poor a gettleman going.

But to return to Mark. When he had settled his accounts at night, he took from a pigeon hole in his desk, the little book aforenamed, and entered as follows: "To one real wake up $10." which being done, he locked his desk, and returned once more to Mrs.

Days flew on, and the shop of Mark bees Days flew on, and the shop of Mark became exceedingly popular, and still from time to time he was assailed by the kind of temptation we have described. Now it was: "Mark, my dear fellow, do join us in a trip to G—'s;" and now, "come, my old boy, let us have 'a spree at F—'s;" now it was the club, now an oyster supper—but Mark was invincible, and still as one and another gally recounted the history of the scene, he silently committed the nistory of the expense to the little book. Yet Mark was not cynical nor unsocial. His refusals, though so firm, were invariably good natured, and though he could not be drawn abroad, yet he was unquestionably open hand-

where all was brilliant, tasterul and well ordered; and, in fine, notwithstanding his short comings, Mark was set down as a fine, open handed fellow after all.
At the end of the year, Mark cast up his account in the little book, and was mightily astonished at it, for with all his ideas of the astonished at it, for with all his ideas of the power of numbers, he had no idea that the twos, fives, tens and ones which, on greater or smaller occasions, had found their way into his columns, would amount up to a sum so considerable. Mark looked about him—the world was going well—his business machinery moving in exact touch and time—his house, where was there a prettier one? where a place more replete with every home drawing comfort? Had he lost everything in pleasure the past year? Mark thought not, and therefore, as he walked homeward, he stepped into a book-some evenings before.

That same evening came in Ben. Sanford, as he expressed it, "in the very depths of indigo;" for young gentlemen, whose worldly matters invariably go wrong end foremost, will sometimes be found in that condition, however exuberant may be their stock of animal spirits. for New Year's presents, hang 'em all!

Mark was silent for a few moments, and Ben. continued: "Confound it, Mark! what's the use of living, if a fellow is to be so cursedly poor. Here you, Mark, born in the same town with me and younger than I am by some two years, you have a house as snug and cosy and comfortable as a man need ask—a wife like an angel!—peace and plenty by the bushel, and all comes of having a good run of luck in the money line;" and Ben, kicked his slippers against the andiron most energetically.

What has become of Emily P-?" asked with an aweetness and patience, waiting till such a luckless scapegrace as I can give her a home and a husband. I wish to my soul, for her sake, I could afford to get married, and have a home of my own; besides, to tell the truth. I am tired of this rambling, scrambling, out at elog, slip shod life." out at elbon, slip shod life."
"Why don't you get married?" said Mark.
"Why don't I, to be sure! Use my tailor's

Mark reflected awhile in stlence, and then drew out his book—his little book to which we have before alluded.

"Just look at this account, Ben.," said he.
"I know you hate figures, but just for once," Ben glanced at it impatiently—laughed when he read over the first two or three items, but his face lengthead as he proceeded, and

Why should the business of Life Insurance be an exception?
If Losses and Dividends are to be paid in cash, Premiums must first be paid in cash. Without claiming advantages that may not also be attained by others, we do claim for the BERK-SHIRE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, a higher ratio of assets to liability, and much lower ratio of losses and expenses to income than most companies—as appears by the Massachusetts Insurance Commissioners' Eleventh Annual Report—the result of a careful selection of risks, economy of management, and prudent investment of funds, (at as high rates of Interest as are consistent with safety and immediate availability; prompt payment of claims and equitable distribution of surplus unsurpassed by any company, and cordially invite the examination of its advantages by the public.

covery of the Age. WINDOWS CLEANED

With ut Soap or Water, Time or Labor, by usi Woodsum's INSTANTANEOUS WINDOW POLISH

THE attention of the public is invited to this new and valuable preparation for cleaning all kinds of glass, whether in windows or in the form of ware. Its action upon that material is astonishing, and seems more like the workings of magic than reality. It does away with soap suds or hot water, thus avoiding the slops upon the floor or adjoining paint, and the disagreeable sensation of the water running down on the arms, under thealeeves, and wetting them to the shoulders. It leaves no lint upon the glass, and gives it a more transpanent and eleaver appearance than can be got with ten times the amount of labor and time in washing. Please experiment with the samples in different manners, until you are thoroughly convinced that the article is, in every particular, fully equal to our recommendation of it. Try it on your looking glass, on your windows, on your silver, brass, britania or tinware: in fact, on anything you wish to clean or polish. Rub some grease on your window, and see how quickly and easily the polish taks it off, and how singularly clear it leaves the glass. Price 25 cents.

For our Great National Work,

Standard History of the War, Complete in one very large Volume of over 1,000 Pages. Splendidly Illustrated with over 150 Fine Portraits of Generals, Battle Scenes, Maps and Diagrams. In the selection of matter for this great wor the author has confined himself strictly to di dicial data derived from the reports of Norther and Southern Generals, the report of the Commit tee on the Conduct of the War, National and Rebe tee on the Conduct of the War, National and Robel Archives, etc.

He has carefully avoided the introduction of any matter not strictly reliable and official, and has succeeded in producing what is universally demanded, a fair and impartial History of the War. The great superiority of this work over all others is everywhere acknowledged. It is marked by a degree of thoroughness and accuracy attempted by no octemporary.

Disabled officers and soldiers, teachers, energetic young mea, and all in want of profitable employment, should send at once for circulars, and see why it sells faster and gives better satisfaction than any other History published.

BIBLE HOUSE, ASTOR PNACE, New York.—In the early part of February, 1865, I was suffering from a violent cough, for which I had been treated during six months previously without benefit, I had Night Sweats which completely prostrated me. In the gvening, hoarseness would come on, which would prevent me from speaking above a wopen of the state of the previous of the state of the previous properties, and then had two attacks of bleeding rapidly worse, and had been compelled to have business for nearly two manths. All my symptoms indicated, unmistatibly, the presence of Consumption. In the beginning of February, Mr. Henry Fisher, Treasurer of the American Bible Society, presented me with a bottle of the Prepared Prescription. In a few days, my appetite, which had entirely lost, returned; within a week my cough had almost left me; and in less than two weeks the Kight Sweats were broken up. Thenceforward I regained strength rapidly, and am now regularly attending to my duttes as clerk to the American Bible Society, in whose employing of the prescription effected air into my lungs. I suffered so greatly from 'sbortness of breath,' that I was compelled to take frequent rests in walking from my residence to my place of business.

> MORRISON'S OPERA HALL.-The Roland Brothers' troupe gave their last performance on Saturday night to an audience that was totally unworthy of the character of the exhi-bition. We have never seen a company pre-sent so good a performance, of the kind, not even the Hanlon troupe itself, and it is to be etted that it was not more liberally patron ized. The failure, however, was, in our opi ion, mainly owing to themselves, for when people adopt the language of "humbugs" they must expect to be treated as such. It is our experience, and must be that of our ment frequenters as well, that there has city, if it was not possessed of real merit but what endeavored to make high sounding words answer the purpose of real attractions, and we are free to confess that the "altioravo-linte," "Calisthenic exercises," and "contortion infernal" of the Rolandes had impressed us with the belief that they promised much who attended the exhibition, but the knowledge came too late to benefit those most inter-

Weekly Review of the New York Markets. New York, Saturday, Deember 8. NEW YORK, Saturday, Deember & Flour—Trade much depressed during the past week without any uniform prices; sales could not be effected to any extent without holders submitting to a large decline, and the heavy arrivals, with a material decline in gold and less favorable news from Europe, has increased a general desire to sell; we note a decline of 10@15c, on low grades; $1@1 35 a barrel on medium high grades. The rapid increase in store has induced trade to hold off, and the absence of demand for export has virtually left no demand for flour. The stock hrs an increase of about 485,000 barrels, which with large stocks at the east and Philadelphia serves to restrict business. We notice more demand for low grades extra State and export and at a slight concession in prices a considerable business would be done.

Marriage of General Kilpatrick.

We will forget this subject, however, in listening to the wedding bells of General Kilpatrick, our Minister to Chili, whose marriage takes place to-morrow morning at seven o'clock. It will be a very quiet affair, unattended with any display or rush of curious fashionables. None but two or three of the General's intimate friends and a few relatives of the bride will be present at the ceremony, which is to be performed by the bride's uncle, the Archishop of Chili. The lady, Senorita Louisa Valdivieso, is very beautiful and accomplished, and belongs to one of the best born of Spanish pride and aristocracy, still clings to the glitter of noble ancestry. The patriot Gederal Carrera, whose statue fronts that of San Martin, the father of Chili, was an uncle of the bride, and the present Minister of War, Senor Errazuris, act as groomsmen at the marriage, immediately after which there will be a little breakfast party at the General's residence.

marriage, immediately after which there will be a little breakfast party at the General's residence.

At the conclusion of the morning's festivities the General and his bride will go out to a beautiful sountry seat of a relative of the family, where they will remain a month or two in retirement from eity annoyances. A trip to the hot springs, in the Andes, and other little pleasure tours are planned to follow the first weeks of the honeymoon, and make the summer months delightful until the winter season calls back the pleasure seekers to the gayety of the capital. On the 15th of November General Vickers, of Philadelphia, attache of legation, marries Senorita Amelia Valdivieso, sister of toamorrow's bride. This wedding will also be a quiet, homelike one, attended only by a few intimate friends. Senores Covarrubias and Errazuriz will act upon the occasion as groomsmen. Soon after the marriage General Vickers and his wife will leave on a bridal trip to the United States, probably reaching New York in time for the Christmas holidays.

English Accounts. English Accounts.

The following aneedote will show with what nice precision the accounts are required to be kept in the great private banking houses of the English metropolis:

After closing the doors to customers, every clerk makes up his accounts, and a general balance is struck, which must tally to the veriest farthing before the clerks separate. It happened, on the occasion in question, that in one of these vreat establishments, there was balance is struck, which must tally to the veriest farthing before the clerks separate. It happened, on the occasion in question, that m one of these great establishments, there was two shillings and ten pence minus in the balance. Every clerk was ordered to revise his account, the silver and copper money in the vast vaults was recounted—but still there was no solution of the cause of the deficit. This was repeated over and over again, still there wanted two shillings and ten pence; the resident partner would not let the clerks depart without a correct balance; gladly would each clerk have paid the difference ten times out of his own pocket. The affair remained unexplained until the next morning, when, on the arrival of one of the nonresident partners, he recollected taking that exact sum out of the till, for the payment of the postage on a foreign letter, but without making the usual memoandum of the same.

Labor and Crops in Arkansas.

A gentleman who has lately returned from the hot springs of Arkansas, furnishes the following information to the editor of the Atlanta Intelligencer:

Affairs in the interior of the State, he says, are rather quiet, and but comparatively few outrages of any kind occur; and those few are confined to parties known as Union Leaguers and Jayhawks. In some portions of the State the yield of cotton is pretty fair, and there is never to force. The supply of labor, how-confined to parties known as Union Leaguers and Jayhawks. In some portions of the State the yield of cotton is pretty fair, and there is plenty of corn. The supply of labor, however as short, and the targe planters are making strenuous efforts to procure it from the other Southern States. The Price paid is from twenty to twenty-five dollars per month for good hands. Our informant also stated that on the Arkansas river and the larger bottoms, the mortality among the negroes is two-told what it was before the war, owing to the careless habits, and aversion to take medicine when left to their own choice in the matter. He thinks the great cotton growing region of the lower valley will continue to draw on the edder Southern States for labor, until the nuply is entirely exhausted, and that our people have no idea of the extent to which this has

Dr. HARTMAN—Dear Sir: Having used and thoroughly tested the Safety Bridle and Reims of your invention for the last nine months, in both single and double harness, I am free to say that;
am much pleased with them. I would not to-day take five hundred dollars for them if I could not procure another set. They are just the thing to enable any one to obtain control over, and complete mastery of the hores, more especially horses

Messre. Dr. J. W. Smelser, and others:
GENTLEMEN.—The specimen of Carbon Oil, marked "SEPTOLINE BURNING FLUID." which you handed me for examination, I find to give the following results:
It boils at a temperature of 172 degrees F, and the vapor endures a temperature of 00 degrees before it is converted into gas. The danger of explosion in any Euraing Fluid depends on the low temperature at which its vapor is converted into inflammable gas, for no fluid, while it remains liquid, is explosive; it is the inflammable gas generated by heat, that explodes; and as this oil bears a high temperature before it generates gas, I regard it a very safe Euruing Fluid, and I consider it a safer Burning Fluid than Coal Oil, in burning.—Its productions to chiefly heavy coarbonated hydrologic, (oilidinat gas.), and consequently it makes a philiant light with but little heat.
